TOWN LOTS RAISED

State Tax Commissioner Issues Instructions to County Assessors—Mason Is Not Raised.

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Aug. 12.—In equalizing the assessment of property this year, the State Tax Commission had to increase the assessment of tangible personal property in 119 out of 120 counties in the state, Rayner T. Wells, commission, declared today. Mason county had a perfect assessment on all classes of property, he said.

Judge Wells, at the same time, issued instructions to county tax commissioners, directing the assessment of property. He instructed them to assess:

Wires, poles, and transmission lines of telephone and electric light and power companies, water and gas mains, hydrants, meters, machinery and pipe lines conveying oil, as personal property.

Real estate and personal property at least at the value of last year, including the raises placed thereon by the state tax commission.

Land at some slight increase in order to equalize it with the lands of the state and more nearly approximate its real value. If any county falls under the average assessment of lands of the state, based upon their transfer value last year, to assess it so as to have it equal to or above that percentage.

Town lots at an increase over the assessment of last year.

Tangible personal property at a material percentage of increase as made by the tax commission in equalizing the assessment of this class of property with real estate; the Jefferson county suit was dropped by the county after testimony and proof "so overwhelmingly convincing that the increase was fair, just and equitable, that the county voluntarily dismissed the suit, paid the cost, and commended the tax commission for its action."

Personal property of every kind, tangible and intangible, books, accounts, stocks and bonds of every individual, person, partnership or corporation of your county in order to secure a fair assessment of this property.

Judge Wells urged that assessment of intangible personal property be made at its full value.

"It is essential that you assess this class of property because it only bears a state rate of 50 cents and is exempt from all local taxation," he said. "Every taxpayer should at least be willing to assess this class of property when it is only required to pay one-third as much taxes as all other classes of property."

For the same reason, manufacturing machinery and raw material at the plant should be assessed fairly, as they are exempt from all local taxation, he said.

Judge Wells said tangible personal property had been under-assessed for many years.

"This commission made an earnest endeavor last year to equalize the assessment of tangible personal property with real estate, and in doing it, it necessitated a material percentage of increase upon this class of property throughout the state," he said. "In order that the burden of taxation may be borne by all alike, the owners of real estate and tangible personal property, the assessment and equalization thereof must necessarily receive the careful attention of the county tax commissioners."

Speaking of city property, he said the "commission must see that town lots are assessed on an equality and uniformly with the other property of the state."

Concluding he said:

"We wait until the last paragraph to mention the most important feature in your assessment this year, and that is the assessment of intangible personal property, such as stocks, bonds, notes, accounts and other evidences of debt. We know that there is a very large percent of this class of property that is not assessed at all."

County assessments were recently certified by the commission to auditor W. H. Shanks for transmission to clerks and collecting officers for collection of ad valorem taxes. About 80 counties showed losses of about $200,000.

Louisville Visitors Here Today Confer With Local Committee On Entertainment.

Members of the Kentucky Master Bakers' Association met with the local committee at the Cumberland Hotel this morning and made tentative plans for the entertainment features of the annual convention which will be held here October 6-7-8.

C. O. Brown and W. D. Mott, representing the Kiwanis club and the Merchants Association, and Charles D. Haynes, proprietor of the Haynes Bakery, are assisting in making plans for the event. The visitors today were Morris P. Evans, Ernest Kersig, president of the association, John H. Stehlin, vice-president; Jacob Nill, past president, and H. E. Nagel, all of Louisville. Mr. Nagel formerly lived in Middlesboro and operated a bakery here.

President Kersig says that there will probably be about 100 master bakers who will attend the convention here. All the visitors were well pleased with the selection of Middlesboro as the convention city.

Davis Flays G. O. P. in His Clarksburg Notification Address

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 12.—

Here in his native hills John W. Davis last night launched his fight as democratic candidate for president of the United States, a fight which he told the leaders of his party when they met in a reorganization session, would be one waged without kid gloves. Before thousands of his fellow townsmen and countrymen gathered in Goff Plaza the candidate defined what he regarded as the chief issues in the campaign.

In thus launching the democratic national campaign of 1924, he indicted the republican party "in its organized capacity for having shaken public confidence on its very foundations," and laid against it these specific charges:

"Having exhibited deeper and more widespread corruption than any that this generation of Americans has been called upon to witness.

"Complacency in the face of that corruption and with ill will towards the efforts of honest men to expose it.

"Cross favoritism to the privileged and utter disregard to the unprivileged.

"Indifference to world peace and timidity in the conduct of foreign affairs.

"Disorganization, dissension and incoherence."

Will Use Judgment

Declaring that on the record he would ask the voters of the country to pass judgment of condemnation, "as a warning to all men who aspire to public office, that dishonesty either in thought, word or deed, will not be tolerated in America," Mr. Davis said the democratic party was prepared to offer in exchange a "program based on democratic principles and guaranteed by a record of democratic performance."

The chief things to which he pledged himself were:

An honest, impartial, and so far as human wisdom will permit, a just government.

Opposition to any challenge—"organized or unorganized, under whatever name or in whatever character it may appear"—of the constitutional guarantees of religious freedom.

Enforcement of all laws, including the prohibition amendment and statutes enacted under it.

Agricultural aid through revision of the tariff; governmental assistance in extending the co-operative marketing principle and by other means.

Reduction in taxation and revision of the tariff.

Economy in government, but not of the kind that deprives government employees of pay equal to that they would receive from private employers.

Approval of the world court.

Opposed to Wars

Co-operation officially with all legitimate endeavors, whether from the league of nations or from any other sources, to lessen the project of war; to aid in repairing the ravages of past wars; to promote disarmament and to advance the well being of mankind.

To maintain the means of adequate national defense "until reason is permitted to take the place of force."

In opposition to the impairment, "either by injunction or any other device" of the rights of labor to organize and to bargain collectively for "an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions."

The protection of women and children from human greed and unequal laws.

Prevention of child labor and suppression of the illicit traffic in soul-destroying drugs.

Conservation of all of the natural resources of the country.

"Grateful care" to the "veterans of our wars, especially to those who were stricken and wounded in the country's service and whose confidence has been so cruelly and corruptly abused."

Is Free From Pledges

Finally, Mr. Davis said he entered the campaign free from pledges or promises to any man and would "hold it so to the end." Also he declared, that when it became necessary to raise funds for the conduct of the campaign they would be contributed "with this understanding and this only—that neither the democratic party nor I, as its leader, have any favors for sale."

FLIERS SOON TO CONTINUE FLIGHT

Weather Conditions Are Now More Favorable—Supply Ship On Scene.

By Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 12.—Gertrude Rask, Danish supply ship of the American around the world fliers, arrived here last night, having broken through the ice pack where it was imprisoned for a week. Angungssalik harbor is free from ice and weather conditions have generally improved.

The scheme when they are reported to have operated at Yankum's, Le's and Moreland's is so complicated that perchance only the manipulators themselves understand it. The principle involved goes deeply into psychology but may be phrased stated as the utter confusion of a clerk's mind by two persons talking at the same time while the clerk is making change, resulting in giving an extra five dollar bill to the purchasers.

The pair is charged with getting five dollars from each of the victims. They were arrested by the police yesterday and identified as the manipulators of the trick.

BRITISH TROOPS TO QUELL RIOT

Trouble Started by Cadets Results in Death of Ten—Arrested by British.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The British government has sent a battalion of troops to reinforce the British garrison in Sudan as a result of clashes between Egyptian and British soldiers at Ataba following disturbance when Egyptians attacked the barracks, hurling bricks. Ten Egyptian soldiers were killed and nine wounded during the disturbance. The trouble started Saturday when the British say cadets refused to surrender their arms after the parade. The cadets were surrounded and arrested by British troops.

FISH GAME CLUB ORGANIZED HERE

Dr. J. P. Edmonds, President—Club Will Foster Sympathy for Game Laws.

Nucleus of a fish and game club was organized here at a meeting of local men with representatives of the State Fish and Game Commission. Dr. J. P. Edmonds was elected president of the organization, W. E. Frazer, vice president, and Bert Moore, secretary.

Representatives of the state commission present were: George C. Waggoner, executive agent; C. J. Meredith, superintendent of wardens; R. J. H. Sparr, warden at-large; and District Warden Roberts. Interesting talks were made by these members on the subject of fish and game preservation and propagation.

It was pointed out that Kentucky has ideal natural surroundings for game and hundreds of miles of streams for fish, that both would be practically unlimited if all sportsmen would use only fair and legal methods in fishing and hunting.

The purpose of the local club will be that of creating a sympathy for game law enforcement in this section, of the people in the importance of observing such laws. There will be a meeting of the state organization next winter and the local club will form a part of it.

The representatives of the state commission left this morning for other towns in this section where they will assist in organizing similar clubs.

LABOR IS JOINING REPUBLICAN RANKS

Reports From Capital Indicate Coolidge Will Have Large Labor Following.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The political atmosphere about the white house was brightened further yesterday by receipt of reports that labor organizations were joining in the republican movement.

Endorsement of the candidacy of President Coolidge was received from the International Longshoremen's association with headquarters in New York in a letter from James F. Ryan, vice president. The text was made public. Other similar written endorsements have been received from railroad organizations throughout the country, particularly in the west.

C. Bascom Slump, secretary of the president's staff, since the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, had endorsed Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, independent candidate.

Mr. Coolidge spent a quiet day, attending to government business yesterday morning and received some visitors, including a delegation from Baltimore, which invited him to speak there September 6 at the unveiling of the LaFollette statue. The invitation was taken under consideration.

A letter of the president's disclosing a determination of his part to stay out of local political disputes and likewise to carry out the letter of the constitution in not opposing the candidacy of a negro to run for congress was made public at the white house. It was addressed to Charles R. Gardner of Fort Hamilton, N. Y., replying to a protest of the letter against the candidacy of a negro for a seat in congress from New York.

Cuts Hair, Lays Blame On Imaginary Person

By Associated Press.

ROSENTHAL, Germany, Aug. 12.—The police have recently completed a long investigation of a reported attack upon Charlotte Fenster, a young stenographer, by a human monster, who cut off her braids and was prevented from doing further harm by the appearance of the girl's dog, according to Charlotte.

The police pressing Charlotte closely for the facts learned that the girl wanted to have her hair bobbed and was forbidden by her parents; that Charlotte held up herself and cut off her own braids and then reported the alleged attack to the police.

ENGINEERS TALK AT SCIENCE MEET

Strength of Materials Discussed Toronto Convention in Today's Session.

By Associated Press.

TORONTO, ONT., August 12.—Latest methods of testing the strength of engineering materials were described at a meeting of the Engineering section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science today.

That the strength of a chain is that of its weakest link is obvious, but it is not generally appreciated that every bridge, automobile, or other structure or machine is a chain of which the different members or parts form the links.

Previous efforts of engineers to ensure that there shall be no weak links in these chains have been hampered by their imperfect knowledge of materials and the forces which act on them. Until recently it was only possible to estimate these forces mathematically, or by the construction of models of the intended structure. While such methods are still used, Prof. E. G. Coker of London, England, has perfected a method whereby forces can be made visible and measured, thus adding considerably to our knowledge of stress distribution, and enabling steel and other materials to be employed with greater efficiency and economy.

For this purpose "polarized" light is passed through a transparent model of the part that is ultimately to be made in metal. When a measured force is applied to this model, the light passing through it is transformed into beautiful patterns of different colors. The shape and color of these patterns stress the intensity and direction of the forces acting in the specimen. Such investigations indicate where material can be removed with safety, in what ways the intended machine or structure can be improved, and also throw light on the causes of previous failures.

In this way bridge members, ship plates, automobile gears, and other important parts have been, and are being studied.

At the meeting, today, Prof. Coker described researches he has made by means of this method on the form and behavior of test pieces. All important machines and structures nowadays are made to carefully drafted specifications, and tests are made on portions of the steels or other materials employed to ensure the safety of the completed work. If the tests are not correct, the finished bridge or other work may be considerably weaker than was intended, and considerable inconvenience or loss of life may result. This research has resulted in the recommendation by Prof. Coker and Dally of a new form of test piece in which certain inaccuracies, due to the specimens now commonly employed, may be avoided.

WEAVERS PROVIDE SUIT FOR NOMINEE

North Carolinians Send Homespun Suit of Clothes to John W. Davis.

An eight-yard bolt of homespun, woven by hand by North Carolina hand weavers, has been sent to him along with a letter signed by I. H. Bacon, which says in part:

"This cloth is made of Democratic wool, from Democratic sheep, spun and woven by Democratic men in the altogether Democratic Old North State."

The industry which produces these wools, is endeavoring to return to the handicraft of our Democratic forebears when man fed and clothed himself.

"We can assure you that the cloth will stand the storms and stress of your whole term in the White House."

STATE RENEWS ATTACK GLAND TALK IN CASE

Hulbert, Last Defense Alienist, Nearly Finished.

DISEASE EXPLAINED

Dr. Hulbert Says Persons Having Endocrinal Gland Ailment, Cannot Expect to Make Success.

Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The state continued the lengthy cross examination of Dr. H. S. Hulbert, last of the defense alienists, in the Franks hearing today, laying grounds for rebuttal testimony in preparation for introduction.

Robert Crowe, state's attorney, renewed the attack on the theory of functional disorders of the endocrine glands being responsible for the mental sickness of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, which permitted them to slay Robert Franks.

Persons suffering from endocrinal diseases are failures in life, Dr. Hulbert testified, denoting Leopold as one. When court recessed at noon it required forty-five minutes after Crowe finished the cross examination of the defense. It then rested.

MOONSHINE AND AUTOMOBILES.

The drunken driver of an automobile is the worst menace of the road and street. He is potentially, as great a menace as the grade crossing. He risks not only his own life and limb but that of his passengers and those of all other users of the highways. If he gets little consideration, he deserves less.

The person who goes to the driver's seat of an automobile in a drunken condition and drives the road when they are congested with automobile traffic, as they are at this time, he should be dealt with the same as any other criminal, who commits premeditated crime. Filling up on moonshine whiskey is in itself a misdemeanor, and when the inebriate goes on the road with a machine, he becomes a criminal in every sense of criminal law.

The standing of the person in the community, his family connections, if any, have no bearing on the case. No doubt such cases are very distressing to the men and their families who become thus involved, but the courts owe a plain duty to the public and it is put squarely up to them to see that this menace is removed from the highways.

DEADLOCK IS POSSIBLE IN COMING RACE

Three-Cornered Race May Fail In Election.

HOUSE MAY CHOOSE

Unique Situation Occurred In 1800-21—House Decided Then Without Difficulty.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—As always happens when more than two outstanding presidential nominees are in the running, political chatter again is figuring over the possibility of a deadlock in the Electoral College this year and speculating on whether in that event the House or the Senate finally would decide who should become president.

There are many ifs and ands in these calculations and the dopests themselves are not forgetful of the fact that only twice in the country's history in 1800 and 1824 was the College of Electors unable to make a choice. And on those occasions the issues were settling in the House without difficulty.

Nevertheless, the hearing goes on. A. C. Clegg, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is beginning to hear up for their three-cornered campaign, and some of the prognosticators even advance the theory that all three may fail of election. That point is the complicated skein of theorizing arrived at in this fashion.

Should a presidential nominee receive a clear majority of the 531 votes in the Electoral College the House would be called upon to select a president from the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes in the college, and the Senate would be directed to choose a vice-president from the two highest vice-presidential candidates. Should a deadlock then develop in the House the vice-president chosen by the Senate would become president.

The possibility of a House deadlock is based upon the present political situation there, coupled with the language of the twelfth amendment, which provides that if, after counting the electoral vote, no candidate has a majority.

Then from the persons having the highest number not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as president the House shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. But in choosing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representatives from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all states shall be necessary to a choice.

In the present Congress, the Sixty-eighth, which would be the one to handle such a situation should it develop, the Republicans control 23 state delegations or 23 votes; the Democrats 20, while Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire and New Jersey probably would be unable to vote as their delegations, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans, supposedly would be unable to agree, and thereby deadlock themselves.

The 23 Republican states are the membership now stands are California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The 20 Democratic states are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

The LaFollette followers control the Wisconsin house delegation and hope in the event of an Electoral College deadlock to swing over also some of the other states in the Democratic as well as the Republican column.

With 25 votes, each representing a state, needed to elect, the dopests say triumphantly: "There you are; see if you can figure it out for yourself."

Law Training Now of Greater Importance

By Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Aug. 12.—The world has created conditions which cause a training in the law to be of especial advantage and value, announcement of the 1924-1925 year of the Jefferson School of Law, just issued, declares.
"The rapidly changing order of both social and commercial affairs must impose upon the lawyer ever increasing duties and render his position in the state the most important and honorable," it is added.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY A. HUNT
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Andrew A. Jones, United States senator from New Mexico, the state fall tell from his two additions.
The first is to elect a fellow Democrat from New Mexico to sit with him in the Senate this November.
The second is to force Congress to put New Mexico in the national hall by holding the "Sky Line Trail."

Jones has just been chosen head of the Democratic senatorial committee, which is a body of Senate Democrats working to elect more Democrats in the Senate.
He succeeds Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who did not run for the party this year by presiding over the national convention at New York and bringing that event to a conclusion without conflict.

Also, Walsh is running for re-election himself this year, and it isn't considered proper to boss the Senate committee directing senatorial campaigns if you are a candidate yourself.
Of the 32 seats in the Senate which must be filled this fall, 17 are now occupied by Republicans, 11 by Democrats and one by a Farmer-labor representative.

In the Senate, as a whole, 51 seats are held by Republicans, 33 by Democrats and two by Farmer-laborites.
To give them control of the upper house, then, the Democrats must add at least six new members in the coming election. And that's the job Jones and his assistants have set for themselves.

Reconsidering the political commitments, they have decided to push the G. O. P. strongholds in New Jersey, Illinois, Colorado, South Dakota and New Mexico. In these six states they figure the positions of the Republican incumbents are most vulnerable and the chances best.

ing it was provided that the government give financial assistance to the school.

President Lincoln on April 8, 1861, signed an act giving the school the power to grant collegiate degrees. Since then some 1,400 students have been enrolled, and more than 400 have received bachelor's degree. The college department first was open only to young men, but since 1887 young women also have been admitted. The course is fixed at five years, the first a preparatory year required to finish the preparation of students entering from the school for the deaf through out the country. Admission to the college is by examination and, as a rule, some 30 states are annually represented in the student body.

The young men maintain baseball, football and basketball teams, using hand signals, and are conspicuous figures in athletics throughout the middle Atlantic section. The college also has wrestling, tennis and track aggregations.
Many of Gallaudet's graduates have become teachers of the deaf throughout the country, some even establishing schools in the southern and western states.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE NEARS COMPLETION

Maamoth Structure Will Probably Be Finished In 1926 As Per Schedule.

By Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Construction work on the great Delaware river suspension bridge, according to officials of the commission directing its erection, is keeping pace with the schedule set by the engineers who designed it, making it probable that July 4, 1926, the semi-centennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, will see the new artery of traffic opened between Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The bridge, with a span of 1,750 feet between towers, according to the engineers, will be the largest of its kind in the world. More than a mile and a half in total length, its towers, already in place, reach 385 feet above the surface of the Delaware River.

Draped from the monster cables, each of which will be 29½ inches thick, the floor of the bridge is to be 135 feet above high water, providing passage for the largest craft without altering their top hamper.

The bridge will be 125 feet wide and will accommodate four tracks for trolley and rapid transit lines, and a road way for six lanes of vehicles. Two walks for pedestrians will be built above the roadway. The cost of the project is estimated at $32,783,000.

The divided between Philadelphia and Columbia Institution of the Deaf, den, and the states of Pennsylvania more commonly known as Gallaudet College, of this city, is described by its officials as the only school of its kind in the world which provides without a floor. The towers and higher education for the deaf and the deaf education in which a deaf child, with no formal education whatever, may enter and in the course of years be graduated with a well-rounded education and a collegiate degree.

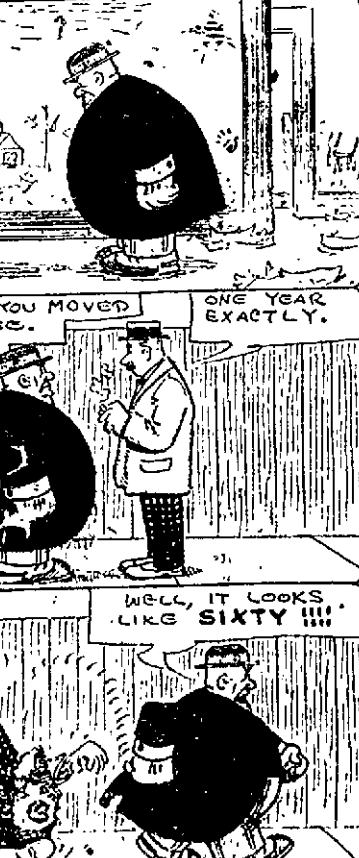

DEAF HAVE UNIQUE CHANCE AT SCHOOL

Gallaudet College Offers Complete Education to Those Who Can't Hear.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, August 12.—The Columbia Institution of the Deaf, den, and the states of Pennsylvania more commonly known as Gallaudet College, of this city, is described by its officials as the only school of its kind in the world which provides without a floor. The towers and higher education for the deaf and the deaf education in which a deaf child, with no formal education whatever, may enter and in the course of years be graduated with a well-rounded education and a collegiate degree.

The school was founded by Amos Kendall, a distinguished statesman of his time, who in 1856 donated a house and three acres of land from his estate in northeast Washington, and a wide swath has been cut into the employed Edward Miner Gallaudet, of Hartford, Conn., as principal. A year Camden to clear the way for the school was obtained from congress through the efforts of Mr. Kendall and his friends, and from the begin-

THERMOLITE NEW BUILDING BOARDS

Substance Renders House Impervious to Decay, Moisture and Insects.

By Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—Russia's scarcity of living accommodations and the high cost of building material have forced the Soviet authorities to experiment in the construction of what are termed "thermolite" houses, the invention of a Russian engineer named Peter Galakhoff. A thermolite house has the conventional framework of wood, but a liquid material of heavy consistency (thermolite), composed of sawdust, straw and common tree leaves, mixed with lime, plaster and anti-septic solution, is interposed between the outer and inner boards.

When this mixture becomes hard, the house is rendered moisture-proof, resist decay, and is impervious to certain insects. With a coating of special paint containing the same ingredients as "thermolite," the house is also rendered fireproof. Houses of this type, according to the inventor, can be erected for 25 percent less than the ordinary house and can be completed within less than six weeks.

Originator of German Post Card Celebrates

By Associated Press.
GOTTINGEN, Germany, Aug. 12.—Heinrich Lange, who has just celebrated his 50th anniversary as proprietor of a stationery and art store in this city, has achieved more than local fame by the fact that he was the first German to bring out a view postal card.

Shortly after taking over the business, Lange had the designs for the first series of souvenir cards drawn by a Göttingen architect, Hildebrand.

Since then the sending of souvenir postal cards has become so popular in Germany that it is a common practice for the German tourist to order post cards at the same time that he orders his beer and his meal. Some inveterate post card senders can even be observed dashing out of the train at every station and hurriedly writing and mailing a view of the town through which they happen to pass.

German Woman, Century Old, Enjoys Humor

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 12.—

Frau Johanna Prigge, who was born here 103 years ago, is believed to be the oldest woman living in Germany. She enjoys excellent health, has an unimpaired and active mind, reads without glasses, occupies herself with complicated fancy work, and delights everybody with her humorous sallies.

After the death of her husband, who was a farmer near here, she took up residence with her eldest son, a teacher in Füllersleben. In the course of years all her children and children-in-law died, and the old lady moved on to Emben in the county of Lüneburg, where she is living with her eldest grandson, a teacher named Stein.

Our Plan and Purpose

The purpose of this institution is to bring together and aid those who wish to save their money and invest it securely and profitably, whether in small or large sums.

We loan our funds for the building or buying of homes, arranging the repayment in moderate monthly installments.

The safety of our institution is based on the first mortgages on our real estate loans, which carry the further protection of ample insurance. Real estate cannot run away. Insurance covers in case of fire, lightning or windstorm loss. Monthly reduction of the principal of the loan offsets depreciation, if any.

Furthermore, by law, we are required to withhold a certain portion of our profits to act as a safeguard fund against the remote possibility of losses.

Our record,—and the record of the great number of institutions of our type throughout the country, is probably our strongest endorsement. For the person with money to invest, it is a record that proclaims SAFETY AND LARGE EARNINGS.

APPROVAL STAMP U. S. IN DEMAND

Private Manufacturers Scientific Instruments Desire Approval on Articles.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Demands of private manufacturers of scientific and engineering instruments for the government's official stamp of approval have resulted in an appeal for additional financial support by the Bureau of Standards, which has just completed the fiscal year with approximately 140,000 tests, more than a hundred fold increase compared with the accomplishments of the first year of its existence 22 years ago.

Upon the findings of the bureau depend millions of dollars of expenditures in the world of physical science and engineering. While most of the testing is done for the government, examinations also are made for commercial firms and individuals, more than 40,000 test folders, covering 600,000 such tests, for which a charge is made, having been issued since 1902.

The government work is given precedence, however, and in some cases all testing except that for the government has had to be refused because the demand exceeds the facilities for doing the work.

The services have been in progress for three weeks, and have been well attended each time. About 100 have been converted and reclaimed during the meetings, and most of these have joined the churches of the different denominations, to be received at early dates. SEASIDE, Alaska, August 12.—Movements of salmon of various species from the North Pacific Ocean to their spawning grounds in the southeastern Alaska district will be charted this summer for the first time in history, according to Assistant Fisheries Agent E. M. Ball.

Five thousand salmon will be tagged, released and a reward of fifty cents each offered for their return with the information of how, when and where captured.

BOTTLES OF CIVIL WAR DAYS FOUND
Excavations for Building Leads to Many Interesting Finds in Kansas.

By Associated Press.
LAWRENCE, Kan., Aug. 12.—Relics of the Quantrell raid in Lawrence on Aug. 21, 1863, when 150 men of the town were massacred and the city pillaged and burned by Confederate "bushwhackers," were unearthed when excavations were made recently for the new building of the Lawrence Journal-World. Workmen removed from their diggings an assortment of liquor bottles, metal bar fixtures and glassware, some of the wreckage bearing the imprint of a Leavenworth distiller of 75 years ago.

Investigation showed that the excavation had invaded the filled-in cellar of a saloon, run by Joseph Brechtelbauer at the time of the raid.

Brechtelbauer fled from the saloon when the guerilla band dashed into town, but he was caught with four other Lawrence citizens, and Quantrell's men shot them all to death.

Familiar things that will attract the circus lovers' attention with Christy Bros. Trained Animal Shows.

STREET PARADE BIG FEATURE THURS.

New Material This Year Adds Much to Pomp, Pride and Circumstance of Circus Parade.

The Christy Bros. Trained Wild Animal Shows have an established reputation for magnitude and splendor, including the necessity of special reference to the many wild beasts and exotic attractions heretofore presented by them, and the best of which are naturally included in their collections this year.

In their visit to Middlesboro on Thursday, August 14, when two performances will be given—at 2 and 8 P. M.—this season they announce a number of newly added features, whose novelty, uniqueness and popularity entitle them to first place in consideration.

Prominent among these may be named the new liberty horse act, trained, conceived and produced by the king of all equine trainers, Morritt Bellow. They do many wonderful things and with amazing accuracy.

These beautiful animals find their places in the most intricate of drills and wonderful formations. It is really marvelous to see them "find the numbers" and to play a most exciting game of football that is really a sensation.

A company of trained dogs is also a feature that will please. Some of them are dressed as elephants and others as clowns. They perform with several educated monkeys, several goats and a troupe of trained sheep.

One dog is the sensation of the scenic world. He does a double somersault on the back of a fast moving pony. This is a new feat in equine and canine education.

The menagerie also affords unusual interest to those who are fond of animals. In it are presented many new specimens hitherto unknown in zoological exhibits. The performance is, now this season, from the ponderous and elaborate vehicles of the new parade to the smallest piece of material.

The program is one of great originality and the acts are new and exciting in every way.

Clowns are a most important factor in the day's entertainment and the large army with Christy Bros. have a number of new and original stunts that include burlesque on the latest topics of national and international events.

The new street parade will be one of the features of the day. It will start at noon and traverse through the business portion of the city.

JAPS DISCIPLINE ARMY OBJECTORS

Number Opposed to Military Service Increases—Methods Satisfactory.

Associated Press.
TOKIO, Aug. 12.—The Japanese army has a special disciplinary corps for dealing with conscripts who fight their compulsory service too bitterly or who show a tendency toward socialist or radical ideas, according to Lieutenant General Issai Ugaki, Minister of War, speaking to the House of Representatives recently.

General Ugaki did not indicate the methods used, but said the results had been satisfactory.

"The spirit of the army is not likely to suffer from such elements, although it is true that conscripts of such refractory turn of mind are increasing in number," said General Ugaki.

The army at first attempted to avoid the conscription of such men, but we have found it better to enlist them and then try to make them see the error of their ways. It is also true that the number of men who try to evade military service is increasing, but the army authorities are doing their best to remedy this tendency."

NEW PLANT FOR MAXWELL HOUSE

Progressive Coffee Company Now is Erecting Sixth Plant at Los Angeles.

Another new Maxwell Coffee plant—the sixth—is now in course of construction in Los Angeles, Cal., and will be ready for occupancy about the first of the year. This step, which is in line with the Cheek-Neal Company's general progressive policy of locating plants at strategic centers as distribution is developed, is the latest and most spectacular of the many forward strides taken by this company within the past few years.

Starting with the original plant at Nashville, Tenn., only a comparatively few years ago, the Cheek-Neal Company now in addition has already established most modern and up-to-date coffee-roasting and packing plants at Houston, Tex., Jacksonville, Fla., Richmond, Va., and New York City.

The completion of the Los Angeles plant will give the company a cross-country chain of establishments that is without parallel in the coffee business in this country.

Mr. James H. Cheek, one of the sons of Mr. Joel O. Cheek, founder of the business and still its active directing head, who has been in charge of the Richmond plant since its establishment, will go to Los Angeles and be in personal charge there.

The new plant is located at the corner of Fourth and Mateo streets, on the Southern Pacific Railroad and adjacent to large terminals. Its location provides the very best possible shipping facilities. The structure is to measure 105 feet by 105 feet, to be five stories in height and built of concrete, steel and brick. From every standpoint it is to be the very last word in coffee plants. All that has been found good from experience at the older plants will be adopted as well as whatever other later devices that may prove to be of advantage.

At the start there will be roasting and packing equipment sufficient to take care of orders amounting to 25,000 pounds of Maxwell House Coffee

SCENES AROUND THE "LOT"

On day, and also complete equipment for cleaning and packing tea. Ample provision is being made in the construction to double the capacity of the plant at any time it is needed.

The decision to invade the Far West was made several months ago following the continually increasing inquiries from Pacific Coast jobbers and dealers about Maxwell House products.

During recent months these became so urgent that it was felt impossible longer to neglect the fact of a great and growing demand in the rich territory of the Pacific Slope.

After a personal study of conditions there, made by Joel O. Cheek, J. W. Neal, L. T. Cheek and J. H. Cheek, the determination was reached to go ahead and the contract for building was let and all arrangements made to push construction with all possible dispatch while they were yet on the coast.

The Cheek-Neal Coffee Company has long been a firm believer in and consistent user of advertising. They regularly use many of the leading national magazines, hundreds of newspapers, bill-boards, car cards and many other forms of publicity. Their slogan, "Good to the Last Drop" has become one of the best known advertising slogans in the country.

FINDS FAITH IN BOYS JUSTIFIED
D. W. Norris Takes Boys From Broken Homes to Farm Where Character is Formed.

By Associated Press.
MUKWONAGO, Wis., Aug. 12.—The problem of what shall be done with the wayward boy has been solved in part in Wisconsin by D. W. Norris, Milwaukee philanthropist, who for several years has absorbed some of the output of the juvenile courts of Milwaukee and placed it on a 752-acre farm near here.

At present there are 67 boys on the Norris farm, varying in age from eight to 16 years. Nearly 76 percent of these come from "broken" homes, those where parents are divorced or separated or where a death has occurred among parents. Not all of the boys are wayward or the product of the juvenile court, several being, singly, homeless lads.

Mr. Norris and his mother personally direct the operation of the farm, although they reside in their home in Milwaukee. A corps of assistants handles the details.

While all of the boys are given tasks that educate them in the care of purebred stock, in the raising of fine crops and the marketing of farm products, including milk, butter, cheese, fruit and vegetables, the general tone of the place is to carry out the idea of a real home, getting away entirely from the idea of a correctional institution, which the farm is not, in the sense of state supervision. It provides recreation, discipline, education, health, home and maintenance, everything to make a normal American boy. There are school facilities on the property.

Although many of the boys come from the juvenile court, and are under little or no restraint, they seldom run away from the farm. A number of them have been taken abroad on long trips by the Norris family.

WATERFALL SOUND

(By Mark Van Doren)

In the middle of the wood it starts.
Then over the wall and the meadow
And into our ears all day.
But it departs,
Sometimes, like a shadow.

There is an instant when it grows
Too weak to climb a solid fence,
And creeps to find a crack.
But the wind blows,
Scattering it hence.

In whispering fragments like the leaves
That every autumn drives before.
Then rain again in the hills, and the brook receives
It home with a roar!

From the middle of the wood again.
Over the wall and the meadow,
It comes one day to the minds of waiting men
Like a shadow.

OBERAMMERGAU AFFECTED BY TRIP

Passion Players Not the Same Since Touring United States, Say Critics.

By Associated Press

OBERAMMERGAU, Bavaria, Aug. 11.—Oberammergau is not the peaceful village that it was before Anton Lang and his wood carving companions went to America early this year. Local opponents of the trip to the United States have gained reinforcements since the return of the Lang party some weeks ago and the town has divided into bitter Lang and anti-Lang groups.

The anti-Lang forces assert that the American visit of the Oberammergau players was an attempt to commercialize the Passion Play, that the trip was a financial failure and they have threatened to sabotage the next production of the performance scheduled for 1932.

Anton Lang himself has held aloof from his critics thus far and refuses to answer them, contending that the charges are unfounded, and avers that the Passion Play will not suffer from criticism or jealousies of individuals.

THEATER PATRONS CALIFORNIA GROW

Forty Million More Attended Shows There During Last Fiscal Year.

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—Forty million more people attended Southern California theatres and places of amusements in the last fiscal year than during the year previous according to figures compiled by the Collector of Internal Revenue here.

During the year ended June 30, 1924, the total attendance at places of amusement was 191,143,072 as compared with 151,298,660 for the year terminated June 30, 1923. The number of persons attending theatres and similar places of recreation is disclosed by the admission tax, which amounted to $3,190,718 in 1923-24, as against $2,552,641 for the previous fiscal year, an increase of $638,077.

An increase of $7,652,658 was shown in the amount spent for amusements last year. The total amount spent was $36,465,384 for the last year, as compared with $28,812,798 for the year before.

According to figures tabulated, the amount spent for all forms of amusements is steadily increasing, as shown by the theatre attendance of 17,900,000 in May, 1924, compared with 14,941,000 in May, 1923.

Furniture of Oak Is Popular In Germany

Associated Press

HAMBURG, Aug. 12.—The furniture makers of Germany assembled recently in Hamburg and exhibited their wares for the first time in a number of years.

One of the most attractive exhibits was a group of rooms decorated exclusively with Old North German peasant art which flourished when the rural districts produced and supported their own artisans to supply them with such furniture as fitted into the low stabled rooms of the farm houses of the early periods. The rural artisan disappeared when the industrial age came with its machine made furniture, and he never has come back. His work today is copied by machinery, but faithfully copied, and well made.

Vienna Women Adopt Colored Handkerchief

Associated Press

VIENNA, Aug. 11.—Women's linen handkerchiefs, in colors and fancy designs, are the vogue here just now. One of the most popular colors for handkerchief borders is apple green.

Myrtle blue, also is quite the rage and many pink borders are seen in the streets and the fashionable cafes. These are all hemstitched, of course.

All white handkerchiefs to be smart, say the modistes, must show a medallion of Brussels lace, bearing the initial or a quaint pattern reminiscent of the days of long ago. And then there are powder puffs to match—they are hidden within the folds of the handkerchief.

"TAKING" VOLCANO IS HAZARDOUS JOB

Camerman Brave Modern Inferno As They Film for "White Sister."

It is very unusual for Mother Nature to perform her work on a regular schedule in any event, and twice as unusual when she performs according to a motion picture director's schedule. Henry King, the producer of "The White Sister," starting his shooting at the Mairing theatre Aug. 18 and 19, not only saw Vesuvius work as per the schedule for his scenes of the eruption of that volcano in the picture, but he and his company have been located in Bocca the Cossa, a village at the foot of Vesuvius for three weeks, making scenes in and around the crater, when the volcano burst forth and found him prepared to take full advantage of the awe-inspiring spectacle.

"All during the winter in Rome," said Mr. King, "I conducted research work on volcanic eruptions and weather conditions, so I could duplicate the actual scenes as near as possible for the picture."

"I had been plotting charts showing the eruptions of Vesuvius from the days of Pompeii, and the weather conditions previous to each eruption, when I suddenly realized that judging from the current weather conditions in comparison to my data, the next outbreak of lava from the famous volcano, standing by the bay of Naples, should be something this summer."

Makes Quick Jump

"My company was a bit surprised when, out of the clear sky, I had done work on the location near Rome and moved them down to Bocca the Cossa, a village which is three layers deep, each succeeding village being built on the ruins of one which had been buried previously by lava flow. I had told no one just exactly the reason for shifting the location, except to say I thought it would be a good time to get some scenes around the volcano."

"We had been working about three weeks in and around the crater, when one morning the old volcano began to rumble and shiver, and I had a premonition that I was going to get some of the most realistic pictures of flowing lava and terror-stricken people ever taken."

"I had to work fast, as lava in a molten state starts to flow with great rapidity. We had to figure out our location so as to avoid those fiery rivers, and still be near enough to show the awe-inspiring torrent as it poured down the side of Vesuvius, consuming everything within its path, vineyards, houses and animal life, leaving nothing behind except the bubbling lava, like a scene from Dante's 'Inferno.'"

Fumes Are Deadly

"The fumes and gas accompanying the eruption made us all sick; and a busy Italian cameraman, Fernando Revel, fainted from their effects. One camera became so hot that the emulsion melted off the film and we lost about 1,500 feet of some very fine pictures."

"The terrific whirlwinds and gales created by the coming together of the hot and cold air currents, enabled us to get what were equivalent to actual photographs of tornadoes."

"In fact, the velocity of the winds was so great that at one time one of my cameras was blown over and one of the photographers had his back strained. Fortunately he was not seriously injured and films in this were saved."

"The 'White Sister,' by F. Marion Crawford, is a Henry King production."

Ostrich Feather Not Relegated by Women

The ostrich feather vogue does not abate. That awkward bird who hides its head in the sand is displaying its feathers these days on many garments and articles of dress. From the boudoir robe of satin with graceful feather finish of ostrich around the neck and down the front, to the evening dress with the feathers languidly edging a side drape, it prevails everywhere. One wonders when it will return to its old position of prominence on the hat and the answer is found in a two-piece set of hat and muff. The henna colored hat is small trimmed and high crowned and the feather rises stiffly to quite a height before drooping over. The muff of the same color is made of the uncured feathers used horizontally and stitched down at regular intervals. The hat is small but the muff is surprisingly ample.
